

I've played Merlin, Strahd, and many more. So I'm sure I can convincingly play whichever nobody from around here you want me to.

I am a classically trained actor. The theatre, mostly. Upon a stage, my arena, I was divine. You should have seen me.

A few too many... incidents... left the Actor's Guild no choice but to turn their backs on me. I accept that.

One day I hope to prove myself worthy of their company and place in the Guild. Until then I must learn to control my anger. Before it ruins me.

My rages have not been without their uses however. I have saved myself from more than a few... predicaments... in the past.
